WHY ASK WHY?

In the course of trying to name the ISU yearbook, our staff tried for sophisticated, crazy, humorous and just plain old boring names. However, we came up with one that we feel captures the essence of ISU as it stands in 1991.

This year has seen many changes, both good and bad, and the conflict of change verses tradition. In naming the ISU yearbook "The Cage" we feel we have achieved both a change for the better, and reverted back to a strong ISU tradition.

A little history ...

Fell Hall became the first dormitory at ISU when it opened in 1918, and was residence to the women of ISU. In 1943, the Hall was used for men in the Naval V-12 program, and in this we see change.

As ISU's co-ed population grew, Fell Hall became the primary location for the University's formal receptions. In response to the growing popularity of Fell Hall as a social hub, a snack bar was opened in 1953.

The snack bar, called The Cage, added to the Hall's popularity, and Fell became an informal student center.

So you See ...

"The Cage" can be seen as something negative, restrictive, something to hinder freedom.

But we on the Cage Staff see it as a home for Redbirds, something protective yet allowing us to grow, change, experience.

Only you as graduates can look back on this book and your own memories of ISU and determine how you see ISU - restrictive, or fun. So, in judging our title and our reasoning - why ask why? Just go with it and enjoy?

Student Alumni Council, in keeping with their motto "Linking ISU's past, present and future," has implemented many new programs at ISU.

The Trading Places Program saw President Thomas Wallace and junior Daniel Cress change places to experience life "on the other side". The purpose of the program is to give President Wallace a chance to see how a typical ISU student spends a day, and one student an opportunity to better understand the job of the president.

Student Alumni Council (SAC) also presents SAC-fest each year on the Quad, and involves students and student organizations in days filled with fun, music, food and competition.

SAC also sponsors the Extern Program, which places students with ISU alumni in a professional sponsorship, where students spend time with alumni in their careers to learn more about their job opportunities.

SAC also sponsors such programs as sibling weekend, and is active in ISU homecoming and Redbird Athletics.

Students rally behind troops

By Kirsten Bock

Daily Vidette Staff

Over 200 students and veterans rallied on the Quad Wednesday in support of troops stationed in the Persian Gulf.

"1.2.3.4. . . We support Desert Storm. 5.6.7.8. . . United States free Kuwait," was the chant heard from participants in the College Republicans — Public Relations Student Society of America-sponsored rally.

While those involved in the anti-war coalition stood quietly on the side, CR chairman Matthew Shimkus led the group in calls for support of both the U.S. troops and President Bush's gulf policies.

After a few more chants of "U.S.A.," Shimkus asked for a few moments of silence from the group out of respect for U.S.

troops.

Members of the PRSSA explained why they tied yellow ribbons around the trees and on people's arms. One member said PRSSA wanted the troops to know they are being supported.

"They're very happy to see what we're doing," she added.

ISU student Steve Allen served in the United States Marine Corps for four years and supports the troops in the Gulf now.

"It's essential we support President Bush and support Operation Desert Storm," he said.

"I think it's great. . . it's about time we did something," said freshman Nicole McNichol.

Sophomore James Marshall added, "It would be hard to fight for your country when your country isn't behind you. It's time to be heard."

Shimkus urged this is not a racial war. He said this is not about being black or white.

"This war is about right and wrong. It's up to us to show that 86 percent support Operation Desert Storm," Shimkus said.

"Apathy is not going to win the war for America," he added.

Anti-war protesters started to make statements and the rally became heated. One man stepped into the large circle that had been formed by the supporters but his voice was drowned out by those who did not agree with what he was saying.

"The war has started. . . We need to keep the troops in our minds and our prayers," Shimkus said.

The rally moved from the ISU's Office of Veterans Affairs has added 12 students to the list of ISU students currently serving in Operation Desert Storm. There are now officially 44 ISU students serving in the Middle East.

Eileen Brand, director of Veterans Affairs, said there are an additional 16 students who have withdrawn from the university for military reasons, but have failed to provide the university with a copy of their military orders.

Student reactions mixed

By Michele Buhrmester
Daily Vidette Staff

ISU student reaction to the beginning of the ground offensive in the Persian Gulf War was mixed Sunday, with news of U.S.-led coalition forces entering Iraq Saturday evening, in what President Bush called the "final phase" of the war.

Students expressed a wide range of opinions as to how long they thought the ground war would last.

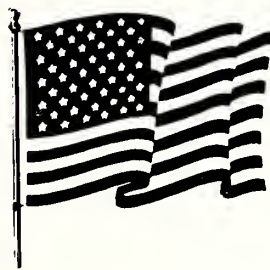

One graduate student said he thought the war would end "fairly quickly." He said he believed Bush will do whatever it takes to win this war and minimize American casualties.

He also said Bush is maintaining a good image in order to ensure that he will be re-elected.

The graduate student said "I sh
